

The Casque of Amontillado

Based on the short story by Edgar Allan Poe, first published in the November 1846 issue of Godeys Ladys Book. THE thousand injuries of Fortunato I had borne as I best could, but when he ventured upon insult, I vowed revenge. You, who so well know the nature of my soul, will not suppose, however, that I gave utterance to a threat. AT LENGTH I would be avenged; this was a point definitively settled -- but the very definitiveness with which it was resolved precluded the idea of risk. I must not only punish, but punish with impunity.

Edgar Allan Poe. The narrator, Montresor, opens the story by stating that he has been irreparably insulted by his acquaintance, Fortunato, and that he seeks revenge. Fortunato apparently considers Luchesi a competitor and claims that this man could not tell Amontillado from other - 16 min - Uploaded by Rev897A dramatic reading of The Cask of Amontillado by Edgar Allan Poe.
